

CPD Workshop – Working with Death and Dying Facilitated by Brian Graham

Saturday 14th October 2017
10am – 4pm

Course Overview

‘Once you learn how to die.....you learn how to live’
Morrie Schwartz

We will be exploring our relationship with death and dying in a supportive environment, where we can give voice to all those questions about death that we may have been afraid to ask.

- ❖ Bringing death in from hiding
- ❖ Building awareness, skills and confidence in the area of death and dying
- ❖ Supporting clients who may be engaged with this in their lives
- ❖ Assisting loved ones in their process of dying

Dear Participants,

In preparation for our day together, please bring with you an object that is meaningful to you which symbolises your respect and reverence for death and dying. These objects will play a central part in our work.

I very much look forward to being with you.

Warmest wishes,

Brian Graham

Facilitator

Brian Graham has been working in a therapeutic context for more than 30 years. He teaches on transpersonal psychology training programmes in London, Scotland, and Sweden. He has a private practice as a therapist and clinical supervisor at his home in Lewes, East Sussex. Currently, with another colleague, he also offers workshops on valuable themes such as The Painful Legacy of Shame and Guilt, Embracing the Masculine and Feminine in Ourselves and clients. He is particularly interested in our relationship with Life and Death and finding purpose and meaning on our life’s journey.
